HEALTH REPORT by Dale

April 2011

I am doing fine and have no additional health issues at this time. I did have a root canal and crown done on one of my teeth and that was traumatic. The term "root canal" itself was enough to scare me, especially since I already had a deep fear and phobia about dentists. However, I managed to get through the procedure with-out too much screaming and pain. Of course, that was until they informed me that the cost was $1800.00. I now have nine crowns in my mouth, and it is disturbing when I realize that my teeth are probably worth more than I am. Anyway, the nine crowns should at least last until I die, so I should be able to chew meat and eat popcorn with nine teeth even if I lose all the rest. If you are going to have a root canal anytime soon, be sure to call me so I can pray for you. Also, you may want to check your bank account. As a way of keeping you informed, I can assure you that pulling the tooth will be a lot cheaper if you have enough teeth to get by without a root canal.
